THE LAKE IN THE GREAT DESERT .- Mr. William P. Blake, who recently accompanied the party of Lieut. J. G. Parke across the desert lying between the San Bernardino mountain and the Colorado river, was enabled, in the capacity of geologist, to make-it is said—the only scientific survey ever attempted of that region. He says that the fact of the ancient existence of an immense inland lake in that section of the country, is established by unmistakable signs of the shells and sand beaches, extending for many miles along the Valley which was traversed by the party. Mr. Blake states that the eastern bor-ders of this vast lake reached some distance to the eastward of the Colorado river. During his journey he saw great quantities of old sea drift silicified wood and marine fossils, all highly polished by the action of the

A TALL SPECULATION .- We are informed, says the Cincinnati Columbian, that a certain house in this city has in serious contemplation a speculation, which in vastness of conception is far ahead of any thing that has preceded it even in this age of gigantic ideas. The plan is an investment in bulk pork of or e million thousand pounds, which at the pres-500,000, three times the value of all the pork packed in the regular way, in the Wes-fell on that day as large as hen eggs. At noon-day it was so dark that candles had to tern States for export.

South Carolina .- The Hon. David Wallace, of South Carolina, has published an elaborate letter in favor of taking the election of Presidential electors in that State from the Legislature and giving it to the people. We have no idea that his plan will be adopted .-The same thing was proposed a few years ago and rejected unceremoniously.

DOWNFALL OF THE "PILLAR OF PEACE." Upon one of the highest cliffs which form the dividing line between Lancashire and Yorkshire, and which constitutes at that point the "back bone of England," there was erected in the year 1814-15, a tall and massive column of rock, commemorative of the joy which the inhabitants of those wild districts felt at the abdication of Napoleon-a suggestive memorial of the blessings which peace had at last brought to the two countries which it separated. A large number of persons subscribed to the cost of its erection; and it was called the "Pillar of Peace." A few weeks since, however, we learn from the London Times, the people of Landfield were alarmed by a loud noise, as if a peal of thunder from the heavens, and, upon looking towards the summit, they found that their old land-mark lay in rains about its base. An ominous accident!

"I ask again, what is happiness?" It ain,t being idle, that a fact—no idle man or woman was happy since the world began. Eve was idle, and that's the way she got tempted, poor critter; employment gives both spectite and digestion. Duty makes pleasure doubly sweet by contrast. When the critter likes to kick up his heels. When pleasure is the business of life, it ceases to be pleasure! and when it's all labor and no play, work, like an unstuffed saddle, cuts into the very bone. Neither labor or idleness has a road that leads to happiness—one has no room for the heart, and the other corrupts it. Hard work is the oest of the two; for that has, at all events sound sleep—the other has restless pillows, and unrefreshing sleep; one ortune and the other a curse, and money ain't happiness, that's clear as mud.—

At the late festival in New York, in commemoration of the birth of Henry Clay, toMr. John Good on Friday last. the following note was received from General

Scott: "General Scott has had the honor to recoive a card for the meeting of the "Clay Festival Association," and if he could depart from the self-imposed rule not to attend any entertainment, so interesting an anniversary —which he places fiext to the 22d of February—would be an exception.

Work-work-work! It is the iron plowshare that goes over the field of the heart, rooting up all the pretty grasses and beau tiful, hurtful weeds that we have taken such pleasure in growing, laying them all under, fair and foul togather-making plain, dulllooking, arable land for our neighbors to peer at, until at night time, down in the deep have decided upon assuming that discarded furrows the angels come and sow.

CONVENTIONS NORTH AND SOUTH .-- The New York Herald has an article upon Conventions North and South, a portion of which we annex:

by men of practical worth and eminence. Their supporters are fanatics of every shade reformed drunkards, and unreformed social-ists, broken down politicians, and linir brain-ed talkers. In the South on the contrary leading men commonly think it worth their while to be present at these periodical assemblages; and to undergo as much annoyance as the frivolity of their associates may inflict for the chance of conferring some practical benefit on their country. This chance, in point of fact, is slender enough; it very rare-ly happens that any real good results from conventions North or South. Much time is consumed in talking; and most scrupulous attention is paid to punctillo and the rules of debate. Resolutions, highly patriotic in the South and highly philosophical in the North, are debated at length and occasionally carried; but as soon as the fiat of the convention goes forth, the members seem to think that their task is complete. In this respect, we see but little difference between Northern and Southern conventions. After the work is done, however-if that can be called work which is seldom anything more than talk-the characteristic peculiarities of the two sections of the country generally develope themselves afresh. Northern conventions close either with a fight or with prayer. Southern conventions invariably with a dinner and a ball. In this respect, we think our brethren of the South have the advantage.

IT IS A FACT ESTABLISHED And well known that the Arabians attained a height in the knowledge of medicine which caused the whole world to wonder and admire. With them the science of chemistry had its birth, and it is, therefore, not at all strange that a people so eminently successful in the healing art, and so persevering and daring in character, should, by actual and untiring experiment, discover remedies far surpassing in efficacy all others, for the cure of hose diseases incident to them from their mode of life. The greater part of their time being spent in hazardous and bloody warfare with the different tribes, they were subject to the most violent attacks of rheumatism, paralysis, neuralgie pains, and various inflamma-tory diseases, as also the most horrid wounds, sprains, bruises, tumors, swellings, diseases of the joints, etc., etc. All these diseases they were so surprisingly efficient in curing, that the uninitiated looked with wonder and attributed their skill to the powers of magic. II. G. FARRELL'S ARABIAN LINIMENT is a composition of balsams and oils, from rare plants peculiar to this country, and it was by the use of the articles compasing this great remedy that not only their physicians, but even the wild Arabs of the desert were enabled to perform such miraculous cures.
